

Pamela provides the unique and indispensable service of educating organizations, professionals and the public about the myriad of myths about workplace bullying. Too many assumptions people make are naive and dangerous to the health of affected targets and their families and costly to employers. Science on the topic is voluminous and Pam stays current as a leading expert. Pam infuses her educational programs with the relevant research. When facts are delivered with her incomparable style blending humor, compassion and certainty, audiences are inspired, motivated and, most important, prepared to act on the detailed information she has imparted.

Gary Namie PhD.
Workplace Bullying Institute